Hi guys!

My uncle Dan has got a great job. I'd really like to do it, too. He's an English teacher, but he doesn't teach in a school – he teaches online. He teaches English to students from different countries. He's got students from Japan, Spain, Mexico, Turkey ... all in the same class! But he isn't in a classroom with a board and chairs and desks. He sits and talks to a camera on a computer. It's cool.

Every day at the same time the students go online and connect to the class. Then they have a lesson. Of course, it's a different time in the different countries. Sometimes it's in the morning, but sometimes it's at night and the students are a bit sleepy!

It's just like a real classroom. They ask him questions and they can talk to the other students, too. They talk about their hobbies and sports and films. Some of them are good at sports or play different instruments. It's very interesting – but everything is in English. Imagine! They don't only chat – they learn grammar and vocabulary, too! Then they do their homework and send it to my uncle online. He marks it and sends it back. Sometimes when they have problems they chat to him online after the lesson. Uncle Dan tells them the things they need to practise.

Uncle Dan teaches lots of lessons every day and he loves it! The students love learning like this, too. What a good way to learn a language and find friends in different countries. Would you like to be in my uncle's English classes? Here's the weblink.

STUDY SKILLS

How do photos, pictures and titles help you before you read a text?

> STUDY SKILLS page 102

1 Look at the photos. How many people do you think live in the house? Then read and check.

THE NARROWEST HOUSE IN THE WORLD?

How big is your house? Are there two, three or maybe four bedrooms? Is there a dining room as well as a living room? Can you put a bed, desk, chair, wardrobe and cupboards in your bedroom? Perhaps there are windows to let in the light. Well, imagine living in the narrowest house in the world! It's only one and a half metres wide and it's too small for stairs. There's a ladder to go up to the very, very small bedroom.

This house is called Keret House and it belongs to Israeli writer, Etgar Keret. Etgar thinks we need more houses today. Many people don't have homes and this is a big problem. His very narrow house shows that people can live in small places. He built it between two other big buildings.

There aren't many rooms in Etgar's house. There's a tiny kitchen with a sink – you can put two cups and plates in it! – and a small cooker. There's a fridge too, but there isn't space for food, only two drinks. There's also a dinner table with chairs for two people. There isn't a bath, but Etgar washes under a shower which is above the tiny toilet. Up the ladder, there is one small bed and a little desk with a light. There are some books on a shelf behind his bed. And that's it. There aren't real windows, only two holes in the wall. Etgar can see if it's light or dark outside.

Etgar built this house because he wants people to think about housing problems. It was an art project. Now, he sometimes stays and works there. It's OK for one person for a short time, but for a family? No way!

Would you like to live here? Post your comments below.

CHESS IS COOL!

Ask a young person today, 'Do you like chess?' and the answer is usually, 'No, I don't - it's boring!' There are a lot of different activities nowadays for young people to do in their free time. They think chess is a game for old people. But today in Norway chess is very popular. It's cool to play chess and that's because of a young man called Magnus Carlsen.

Norway is sometimes called 'The land of the midnight sun'. In the summer, the sun doesn't set for two and a half months. But in the north, in the cold winter, there is no sun for nearly two months! Teenagers in Norway have got a lot of free time when there is no daylight. There's lots of time to play board games like chess. Perhaps that is why the best young chess player in the world is a Norwegian - 24-year-old Magnus Carlsen.

Magnus, 'the Mozart of chess', is a 'grand master'. That means he plays top level chess. He's good-looking and speaks good English. He enters a lot of competitions and practises chess for four or five hours every day. He usually wins competitions with players from all over the world. He's the best player in the world, and so he doesn't have a normal life. He advertises clothes on television with famous actresses and he earns millions of pounds every year!

Magnus loves playing chess, but he has other hobbies, too. He surfs the Internet, and plays sport. He loves football, skiing and ski jumping. He likes reading, especially chess books. Does he like being a chess superstar? He is happy that chess is now more popular in Norway because of him. A lot of teenagers think it's cool to play chess now. But Magnus thinks that football superstars are better!

BOOK REVIEW

Touching the Void

by Joe Simpson: a true story

The year is 1985 and Joe is a 25-year-old climber. He is fit and strong. With his climbing partner, Simon Yates, he is looking for a new adventure. They find it in Peru. They want to climb a mountain called the Siula Grande.

They make a camp at the bottom of the mountain and then they set off. Their climb to the top is successful, but then there is an accident. Joe falls and he breaks his leg badly. There is a rope between the two climbers. Simon holds on to the rope.

It is very cold and the men are tired. Joe is hanging at the end of the rope, over an enormous empty space. Simon is holding onto him. But his hands are freezing. How long can they survive like this?

A snowstorm begins. Soon it's snowing hard. Simon has a difficult decision to make. He thinks his partner is dead. He cannot hold the rope, and he doesn't want to die, too. So he cuts the rope. Joe falls into a deep crevasse in the ice. The story has a happy ending. Joe survives because he climbs out of the crevasse. He has a broken leg, but he crawls slowly across the snow and ice. He gets to their camp and the rescuers find him.

Joe Simpson's true story, Touching the Void, is a great book. It is an international bestseller and it is also an award-winning film. Joe lives in his hometown of Sheffield in the UK. He still climbs and he also writes books, makes films and gives talks.

Please write on the walls!

A famous tourist attraction in Verona, Italy, is always covered with graffiti. But people are not shocked by this. It is part of the attraction. So, why can people write their names and messages on the walls of this very old and beautiful building?

The love story of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet is very famous. Two teenagers were in love, but died tragically because they couldn't be together. It's not a true story, but many people say that an old house in Verona was Juliet's home. The lovely old building has a balcony – just like in the play. This is now a very popular tourist site. Tourists can visit the house and stand under her balcony! There is a tradition, too. People in love write their names on the wall under the balcony. This means that their love will last forever. People also put love letters on the wall. They sometimes leave colourful padlocks to show that their love will never die. Today tourists go to see the graffiti on the wall, as well as to visit the house.

There is another tradition connected to Juliet's house. In 1930 people started to send letters to Juliet's house. They were from people who wanted her advice because they couldn't find true love. Then in 1937 someone decided to answer some of the letters. More volunteers began to help and then the Juliet Club started. The volunteers try to reply to all the letters. At first there weren't a lot of letters, but now people from all over the world send thousands of letters every year! In 2010, there was a film about the tradition called 'Letters to Juliet'. Now the tourist attraction is very, very popular. Unfortunately, they have to clean the walls regularly ... but don't tell the couples who wrote their names!

2 Read the text again. Choose the best answers.

- 1 Why are tourists not shocked by the graffiti?
 - a There is graffiti on many attractions.
 - b There is a special reason for it.

- 2 Was the house really Juliet's home?
 - a No, because she wasn't a real person.
 - b Yes, because Shakespeare said it was.
- 3 What happened to Romeo and Juliet?
 - a Their love lasted a very long time.
 - b They didn't live very long.
- 4 Why do people write on the wall?
 - a to leave a message for tourists
 - b to make sure that their love continues
- 5 Where do they leave written notes?
 - a under Juliet's balcony
 - b on the floor of the courtyard
- 6 Why do people send letters to Juliet's house?
 - a to give their opinions about the tourist attraction
 - b to ask for some help

- a in the 1960s
- b in the 1970s
- c in the 1980s

The life and works of Roger McGough

Roger McGough is a well-known and popular British poet. He was born in Liverpool on 6th November 1937. He studied French at the University of Hull and he worked in the library there. At that time, the university librarian was Philip Larkin, another British poet.

McGough didn't stay in Hull. In the early 1960s, he returned to Liverpool and worked as a French teacher. It was an exciting time to be there. McGough met the pop band, The Beatles, and they became friends. The Beatles were making Liverpool very popular. He also met two musicians called Mike McGear and John Gorman and they formed a comedy band called The Scaffold. They had some hit albums. Their song Lily the Pink was number one in the British charts in 1968. McGough wrote many of their songs, but they didn't have another number one. He also wrote a lot of the script in The Beatles' funny movie Yellow Submarine.

McGough published two best-selling books of poems with Adrian Henri and Brian Patten. These three poets were called the 'Mersey Poets' because they were all from Liverpool and the river there is called the Mersey. Many books of poems followed. A very famous one in 1967 was called 'The Mersey Sound' and it is still popular today.

McGough still writes for adults and children. He loves playing with words, and his poems are often very witty. He now presents a BBC radio programme called Poetry Please. Listeners write to McGough and ask to hear their favourite poems – old or new. Here is one of Roger McGough's poems:

Poem for a dead poet

*He was a great poet he was,
A proper poet.
He said things
that made you think
and said them nicely.
He saw things that you or I could never see
and saw them clearly.
He had a way with language.
Images flocked around him like birds,
St Francis, he was,
of the words, Words?
Why, he could almost make 'em talk.*

Home About All Recipes Seasonal

Cooking healthy food doesn't have to be really difficult! And healthy food doesn't have to be boring. We all need to eat some fruit at breakfast. This recipe is a healthy but tasty way to have some. And you know that you aren't eating any additives or preservatives. The recipe needs some blueberries, but if you haven't got any, you can use other fruit, too. You can also put in some chocolate if you want a treat! It's a piece of cake!

INGREDIENTS

- | | |
|---------------------------|--|
| 125 g plain flour | 2 bananas, mashed |
| 75 g wholemeal flour | 2 large eggs, separated |
| 200 g rolled oats | 3 tablespoons sunflower oil |
| 75 g brown sugar | 250 ml milk |
| 3 teaspoons baking powder | 125 g blueberries (or strawberries, chocolate, etc.) |
| 1 teaspoon salt | |

METHOD

- 1 Put all the flour, oats, sugar, baking powder and salt in a big bowl.
- 2 Make a hole in the centre and add the bananas, egg yolks, milk and oil. Mix them all together gently.
- 3 In another bowl whisk the egg whites for a couple of minutes. You need to whisk hard!
- 4 Add the egg whites to the mixture gently. Add the blueberries or some chocolate and mix again gently.
- 5 Put the mixture into 12 muffin cases. Lay the cases on a baking tray. Put the tray in the oven and cook for 25 minutes at 200°C.
- 6 Leave them to cool on a wire rack and then put them into a plastic container. You can keep them for 4–5 days.

Easy, healthy and delicious! Why don't you try it and leave your comments below?

Reading

1 Read the texts. Are the sentences about Green's (G), The Star (S) or both (B)?

The Good Food Review ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Green's

A new restaurant opened last night near the town of Lemstock. 'Green's' is a top class restaurant and its owner is the famous TV chef Craig Green. Craig is a young talented chef. While he was training to be a chef he entered a TV cooking competition and won. Now he is one of the most famous chefs in the country. 'Green's' is his first restaurant, but he plans to open more restaurants in London, Manchester and Birmingham. Last night there were a lot of famous people and journalists in the restaurant for opening night.

Craig Green cooks a mixture of traditional British food and food from different countries. The menu was excellent, but there weren't any cheap dishes on it! Craig is famous for creating some wonderful salads and delicious cakes. But the amazing thing is, they haven't got any fat or additives in them and all of the dishes are healthy.

I also really liked the design of the restaurant. It was simple and modern with some beautiful paintings on the walls. It didn't feel too dark or serious like many expensive restaurants. You should definitely go to Green's for a meal on a special occasion.

The Star is a new restaurant that serves traditional English food. It is owned by Tom Blossom, an excellent chef who had his own cooking series on television last year. Tom started his career as a chef about twenty years ago. He was working for his father in the family restaurant when he realised that he wanted to become a chef in his own right. Tom didn't train as a chef – he learned everything from his father. His traditional English meals are excellent and they don't cost much money. Visitors to The Star on a Sunday shouldn't miss the roast chicken. It is served with some delicious vegetables, including Tom's famous roast potatoes. But there aren't many healthy dishes on the menu!

The Star is in the countryside close to a river. At the moment it is quite small, but Tom plans to build another room at the back and there are some beautiful pieces of furniture. While I was waiting for my meal to arrive I enjoyed the spectacular view over the river and countryside. You shouldn't miss the opportunity to try The Star. It's the perfect place for a meal with your family.

STUDY SKILLS

What can you do when there are new words in a text and you don't have a dictionary?

➤ STUDY SKILLS page 103

1 Look at the picture and the title of the text, and choose the correct answer.

The text is ...

- a an advert for a wildlife book.
- b a review of a wildlife TV series.
- c the story of a mouse.

2 Read the text and check your answer.

ON TV NEXT WEEK -

HIDDEN KINGDOMS!

Are you going to watch Hidden Kingdoms on television next week? It's going to be a wildlife series with a difference so don't miss it!

Wildlife programmes usually follow the lives of huge animals like elephants, bears, whales and eagles. But in Hidden Kingdoms, you're going to see the lives of some tiny animals. Modern technology is going to show you the world from their level. For example, the first programme is going to follow the life of a sengi mouse in Africa. You're going to watch the mouse from a camera that moved right beside it. You're going to see the fear in its big eyes as it tried to run from a big lizard behind it. Then, in the US, you are going to watch another tiny mouse, a grasshopper mouse, fight a scorpion.

The BBC produced the series and it is both educational and beautifully filmed. The narrator is the famous actor and presenter, Stephen Fry. At the end of the programme you are going to learn how the cameramen filmed the animals. They're going to talk about how they filmed the sengi mouse while it was running like the wind away from the lizard. They dug big holes in the ground for the cameramen. The cameras moved along tracks like little trains. The mouse was fast and the cameramen's eyes couldn't see it. But the camera could! Their film is going to show us the lizard's mouth, big and wide right above us. It is going to show us the sting from the scorpion's tail hitting the grasshopper mouse again and again. Is the lizard going to eat the sengi? Is the scorpion going to kill the grasshopper mouse? I'm not going to tell you. Watch the programme next week and find out! I promise that you're going to love it.

3 Choose the best answers.

- 1 Most wildlife programmes ...
 - a are not educational.
 - b are different from Hidden Kingdoms.
 - c only show small animals.
- 2 The series is about ...
 - a only the biggest and strongest wild animals.
 - b amazing animals eating their food.
 - c wildlife that is too small and fast for us to see.
- 3 Stephen Fry is ...
 - a a BBC producer.
 - b a wildlife teacher.
 - c an actor and narrator.
- 4 The cameramen had to ...
 - a hide from the bigger animals.
 - b film an animal that is very small and very fast.
 - c travel to and from the area.
- 5 The writer makes us want to watch the programme because ...
 - a he says it's educational for school children.
 - b we want to know what is going to happen to the mice.
 - c he gives some examples of the beauty of the filming.

4 CRITICAL THINKING

Which opinions of nature programmes are positive (P) and which negative (N)?

- 1 They help us understand the importance of saving animals.
- 2 They cost a lot of money to make.
- 3 They are sometimes boring.
- 4 They show us only a few animals.
- 5 They are beautifully filmed.
- 6 They help us see things we can't usually see.

5 Match the underlined words in the text with these definitions.

- 1 not see
- 2 you feel this when you are frightened
- 3 someone who explains what is happening that you don't see
- 4 teaches us a lot
- 5 a very large sea animal
- 6 say you will definitely do something

A KeiraSkool

I think that my happiest moment was when I passed my driving test! At school I took lots of big exams and I was happy to pass them. But my driving test was more difficult so I was happier when I passed that. I was very frightened and worried. Then, when I passed, I felt so relieved. When you can drive you can be more independent and more responsible. I mean, now I can go out on my own at night and I don't need Mum or Dad to get me.

My brother was in a skiing accident last year and he broke his leg. And worse than that, he hit his head hard and he was unconscious for two days. We were so worried about him. But then he just opened his eyes and looked at me. And now he's fine. That was my happiest moment!

My dream is to be a writer. I started writing short stories when I was ten years old and last year I sent one of my stories to a magazine for a competition. This story was a bit different, it was longer than my earlier stories. I also think it was funnier than some of the others. I won the competition with that story and they published my story in the magazine. When I read the magazine and saw my story there on the page, I cried. I was so happy and proud! And now I'm writing more stories for the magazine – it's amazing! Perhaps I will be a novelist one day.

Last week my sister entered a TV talent show. She is a better singer than a lot of professionals. I went with her to London. The show was in a big theatre and there were thousands of people in the audience. My sister was very nervous. It was her first time on a stage, but she sang beautifully and at the end everyone stood up. It was brilliant! The judges all stood up and clapped too. The show is going to be on TV next month – I hope she wins!

I had the serious talk with my parents last night. My exam results were badder than last time. They're probably the worstest ever! Dad was angrier than he usually is and Mum was the same. Dad said having the teenager in the house is the stressfulest thing he knows. I said, 'Don't worry, Dad, I can work more hard! Next year will to be the importantest year of my life and I'm going get the most good marks in my class.' I couldn't think of anything more intelligent than that to say. I suppose it was more good than saying nothing.

THE BUMBLEBEE

I think the bumblebee is the most interesting insect. The bumblebee is a type of large bee. It's not the same as a honey bee. Its body is rounder and fatter and it's got bright yellow and black hairs on its back. Bumblebees don't produce very much honey, so there isn't enough for people to collect and eat. These bees aren't dangerous and they hardly ever sting. When honey bees sting, they die, but after a sting a bumblebee won't die. A bumblebee can sting several times.

Most bumblebees live in small colonies or groups of about 50 bees and they have a queen. The queens lay eggs after sleeping all winter. People should realise that these bees are very important to the world. While they are visiting flowers looking for food, they help new flowers to grow by spreading pollen. Without the bumblebees many flowers and fruit trees cannot grow.

There are about 250 types of bumblebee in the world, but they are having a lot of problems. Three types are now extinct and scientists believe many others will disappear in a few years. There are many reasons for this. A lot of bumblebees are dying from a disease that they get when they visit certain flowers. Scientists are going to do more studies in the future to try to find the best way to protect bumblebees against this disease.

Another reason is that a lot of large fields are disappearing. This means there are fewer places where bumblebees can find food. Gardens are a very good habitat for bumblebees and we should make our gardens better places for them to visit. Plant lots of flowers and more bumblebees will fly into your garden. The best flowers are the most brightly coloured – especially purple, blue and pink. Scientists say that bumble bees can't see the colour red! I'm going to plant flowers in a box outside my bedroom window this year. It will be great to see and hear the bees, and help the environment, too.

PERSONALISATION IN FASHION

HOME WE'RE WEARING TRENDS ACCESSORIES

Have you noticed? These days everyone is personalising their clothes and accessories! Everywhere you look you can see jackets with initials like JSJ on the pockets, or a handbag with Kat or NK on the side. It's become a bit of a fashion trend. We asked you what you think about it!

VICKY FROM MANCHESTER

Well, it's not really a new trend, is it? My mum's got a bracelet with her and Dad's names on it. Dad gave it to her on her 19th birthday. But, I agree – it's getting quite popular now. I've seen a lot of people wearing necklaces with their names on them. I've also seen people with their initials on their clothes.

My best friend loves personalisation and she's got a denim jacket with her initials on the back in big, shiny letters! I think it's called monogramming. She's even got a pair of pyjamas with her initials on the pocket at the front. Her mum has just bought her a designer bag and her name's on the inside of that, too. You can't even see it so what's the point?

I don't like the idea of personalisation very much. Why do people want their name on everything like that? Does it make them more confident? Did you know that a famous fizzy drinks company sold bottles with different names on them? People bought them just because of the names! How silly is that? But I imagine it's good advertising, isn't it?

SANDY FROM HULL

I completely disagree with Vicky! I think it's cool. I love fashion, but I don't want my things to be the same as everyone else's. I want them to be a bit different. I think by personalising things like bags and shoes you make them a bit special, special to you. And it's not only your initials or your name. You can pay for words or phrases that are special to you. OK, it costs more, but it's worth it!

I also think it's cool for presents. I bought a present for my sister's birthday. It was a bag of her favourite chocolates – but each chocolate had her name on it! She loved them! And she sent me a video clip at Christmas. It was a group of Santas. They were running and jumping round a classroom to a famous Christmas song. But each Santa had the head of someone in our family. It was so funny! And I've got one of the fizzy drinks bottles with Sandy on it. I love it!

3 Which person, Vicky (V), Sandy (S) or both (B), mentions these things?

- | | |
|--------------------------|--------------------|
| 1 fizzy drinks | 5 shoes |
| 2 something to eat | 6 a friend |
| 3 jewellery | 7 family |
| 4 price | 8 a birthday |

4 Match the underlined words from the text with these definitions.

- 1 made by a special company
- 2 you put things in this – in your jacket, trousers etc.
- 3 very bright
- 4 popular fashion at the moment
- 5 don't agree
- 6 companies do this to make us buy things
- 7 feel that you can do something

5 CRITICAL THINKING

Are the sentences below fact (F) or opinion (O)?

- 1 It's not really a new trend.
- 2 It's called monogramming.
- 3 Personalising your things costs more.
- 4 Personalising is worth it.
- 5 I've got a fizzy drinks bottle with Sandy on it.
- 6 It's good advertising.

MY FAVOURITE NEW INVENTIONS

I've read a lot about new inventions and advanced technology recently for a school project. Technology is progressing so quickly that it's really quite scary! Every year, smaller computers are developed and technology is used more than ever. Here are some of my favourite recent inventions.

A Everyone knows that old people sometimes get lonely. The Japanese have invented a special robot. It is designed to look and act like a small, furry animal! These robots are used a lot by old people in Japan. When these robot pets are talked to, they turn their heads and move. They also make little noises like an animal when they are stroked! It's just like having a real pet so it makes you feel better when you spend time with it. Awesome!

B Another of my favourite inventions is the 3D printer. They're expensive now, but in a few years they'll be cheaper and I will be able to buy one. The 3D printer was invented in 1984 – but it didn't become popular then. Now more and more companies are starting to use them. Ordinary printers print onto flat paper. The 3D printer produces models. It can copy nearly anything, from small models of houses to jewellery! Soon every home will have one.

C Wearable technology has progressed a lot recently. I remember the first time I heard about it. Skiers were given goggles with inbuilt computers. The ski goggles didn't look different, but there was a tiny screen and it was connected to buttons in the skiers' jackets. When these buttons were pressed, the skier was shown information about his speed and where the other skiers were. Soon we will all have tiny computer screens near our eyes. I wear normal glasses now but I'd love to have ones with computers in them like Google glasses.

Which is your favourite? Leave your comments here.

2 Read the blog again and complete the information in the notes. Use between one and four words from the text.

Amazon.com >>>

Hello Sign in

Many online stores have started ... and have stopped again. But some have continued to get bigger and bigger. The most successful online businesses are eBay, Yahoo, Google and Amazon. They have made online shopping very popular today. This is the story of Amazon.

Amazon.com was started by Jeff Bezos from the US. He sold books on the Internet. He did not have a lot of money, but he had some very good ideas. The business started in his garage in 1994. Then $40,000 was invested by a man called Nick Hanauer. This helped, but the website was dull and not very exciting. It was not a great success at first.

The money for a better website was given to Bezos by a second investor, Tom Alburg. His $100,000 helped Amazon to become one of the most successful online businesses we have ever seen.

Bezos has given online shoppers more than just a good price and free postage. For example today, visitors to Amazon.com are asked to write book reviews. And if you buy a book, other books are recommended. This helps customers make a choice. Electronic books are also sold on the site. If you buy one, you can download it immediately, so you don't have to wait for the post.

This and many other new ideas have made Amazon.com one of the biggest Internet sellers of books, CDs and films. But now it is popular for more than just entertainment. Today, millions of different items are bought from Amazon every week. It sells clothes, beauty products, furniture, toys and electronics. They haven't started selling cars and houses yet ... but who knows!

Unit 1

GRAMMAR: USING THE GRAMMAR REFERENCE

- The Grammar reference section appears at the end of every unit of the Student's Book. It gives information about the grammar you study in the unit. Use it to revise and check that you understand the grammar.
- Then use the Grammar in context exercises in this book to practise and check that you can use the grammar.

LISTENING: UNDERSTANDING THE BASIC INFORMATION IN A TEXT

- The first time that you listen to a text, it is good to understand the basic information in the text. It isn't necessary to understand everything. The second time you listen, listen for more detail.

Unit 3

VOCABULARY: KEEPING A RECORD OF NEW VOCABULARY

- To learn new vocabulary, you need to revise it regularly. To be able to do this, write the new words down in a vocabulary notebook or in a list.
- Remember vocabulary by writing words in groups. One word in a group helps you to remember other words in the same group. For example, make three lists from page 26 in Unit 2: Rooms, Household objects and Furniture.

LISTENING: BEFORE YOU LISTEN

- Always look at the pictures before you listen to a text. They help you to know what the situation is.
- Read the questions, too. They give you an idea about what comes in the text. They help you to know what is important in the text and what isn't. Underline the words in questions that you think are important.

Unit 5

READING: USING A DICTIONARY

- A lot of English words have two, three or more different meanings. Sometimes the meanings can be very different. The same word can be different types of word, e.g. noun, verb, adjective, adverb.
- Do not just read the first definition of a word when you look it up in a dictionary. It is possible that the first definition is not the one you want. Look at all the definitions and look at the word in context to decide the probable meaning.

LISTENING: FIRST LISTENING, SECOND LISTENING

- The first time you listen, the important thing is to get a general understanding of what you hear. If there is something you don't understand, don't worry. You usually listen twice.
- The second time you listen, you can listen for specific information and listen to check your ideas from the first time you heard the recording.

Unit 2

READING: PREDICTION

- Look at the photos, pictures and titles that go with a text. They help you to know things about a text before you read.

SPEAKING: LEARNING TO SPEAK ENGLISH

- To speak English you need to practise. Use every opportunity to speak in class (and outside).
- Speak in a loud, clear voice. Look at the person you are speaking to. Don't think about mistakes all the time. The important thing is to speak.

Unit 4

READING: UNDERSTANDING THE GIST OF A TEXT

- The first time that you read a text, read quickly. Don't stop when there are new words. The idea is to understand the basic information in the text. We call this understanding the 'gist' of a text.
- When we read the text again, we start looking at specific details.

VOCABULARY: LEARNING SPELLING

Here are some ideas to help you learn the spelling of new words.

- Write all words down in a vocabulary list, even the ones you know the meaning of. Look at your list frequently to learn the spelling.
- Test yourself. Look at a word, cover it, try to spell it, and check it. Or ask a partner to read out words and you try to spell them.
- When there are rules, learn them, e.g. regular past form -ed endings.
- Use a dictionary to check your spelling when you write in English.
- Read lots of English. When you see a word again and again, it becomes easy to remember the spelling.

Unit 6

LISTENING: LISTENING OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

Listen to as much English as possible. Apart from listening in class, try to listen to:

- CDs or MP3s that come with books or readers
- the original versions of films
- DVDs in English (with or without subtitles)
- songs
- radio or Internet radio in English

WRITING: PLANNING BEFORE YOU WRITE

- Before you write in English, it is always a good idea to plan. This helps you to think of ideas. It helps you to organise the information in a clear logical way. It also helps you not to repeat yourself.
- Planning takes a little time, but it saves time when you start to write. It also helps you to write a good, interesting text.

Unit 7

READING: GUESSING NEW WORDS FROM CONTEXT

- When there are words in a text that you do not understand, look carefully at the context to help you guess the meaning.
- Look at the sentences and words just before and just after the word. This can help you to find out the type of word (noun, verb, adjective, etc.) and the meaning.

WRITING: KNOWING WHO THE READER IS

- When we write to friends and family, we use informal expressions and contractions.
- We use formal expressions when we write to somebody that we do not know personally, such as to a newspaper, a company or a school, university or hospital. In these cases, we do not usually use contractions.

Unit 8

VOCABULARY: LEARNING OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

- Reading is a great way to learn new vocabulary. Outside the classroom you can read reviews, novels/readers, poems, the words to songs, web pages, comics, newspapers and magazines.
- When you read longer texts, like readers or novels, don't worry about every new word. Try to get a general understanding of the text. Only look up words that seem very important or common.

WRITING: PARAGRAPHS

- A paragraph is made up of different sentences which talk about one main topic.
- Paragraphs help you to organise and structure your writing. This makes your written work easy to understand. When there are no paragraphs, compositions can be confusing and repetitive.

Unit 9

VOCABULARY: REMEMBERING NEW WORDS

- The best way to remember new vocabulary is to use it. When you learn a new group of words, use your things to help you remember the words. You can stick Post-its[®] or sticky labels around your room or around your house with the word of the object on it.
- Play memory games with yourself. Read through the vocabulary words, then cover up the words and use the pictures to see what you can remember. Ask your friends to test you.

SPEAKING: SPEAKING ENGLISH BETTER

- Some people speak very correct English, but they speak very slowly. In that case, relax. Don't worry too much about mistakes. Practise speaking for longer periods without stopping.
- Some people speak a lot, and fast, but they make lots of mistakes. When there are a lot of important mistakes it can be difficult for other people to understand you. Slow down. Correct yourself if you know that you made a mistake.
- Listen to and read lots of English. The more you listen and read, the easier it is to speak.

Unit 10

VOCABULARY: EVALUATING YOUR PROGRESS

- When you learn a language, it's useful to think about your own progress. What can you do better now? What do you need to do to continue making progress?
- The end of a course is a good time to evaluate your progress. Remember to be realistic in your evaluation and your ambitions.

SPEAKING: INTONATION

- In English, how we say something is very important. If we use the correct intonation, we can sound interested and polite. If we don't, we can sound bored or rude and make people angry.
- In public situations, the intonation usually goes up and down more than usual. Try to use the correct intonation to create a good impression.
